PAC Contributions to Federal Candidates include contributions to Democratic and Republican candidates for federal office. The table does not reflect contributions to independent candidates, which total $23,250 since 1997. The total reflects donations from the political action committees established by tobacco companies only and do not include personal contributions made by tobacco company executives and employees.

* The amount includes $2,000 from tobacco PACs to President Bush's reelection campaign, but does not include any contributions by executives or employees of tobacco companies.
